Rugcutters Jass Band

“Flappers, Dandies, Sheiks, Wallflowers, Dewdroppers,
Honeydrippers and Vamps, come and get hot!

The Rugcutters Jass Band will be turning the Hobart Jazz Club into a Gin Mill like you’ve never seen ... these dandies really know their onions, and how! Classic jazz from the greatest period of music: the 1920s and 1930s.

Come see Danny Healy burn it on up with his clarinet and saxophones, Damien Kingston chank up a storm with his jazz-boat guitar, Hamish Houston pound his bass into submission, and Matt Boden set the piano a-gigglin’.

Don’t take any wooden nickels, make sure you join us for a jorum of skee and a turn about the dance floor.”

The Ian Pearce Piano Scholarship Another Successful Student

Fraser Reynolds started exploring the piano when he was seven years old and has been playing ever since. As a child he played for fun but at high school he was asked to play for a production band — the start of something serious. At Hobart College Fraser was tutored by Jennifer Marten-Smith in classical piano performance. This was his main style of playing and became the focus of his studies.

Fraser Reynolds

Under the Ian Pearce Piano Scholarship Fraser was tutored by Tom Vincent. A program of fortnightly two-hour lessons on improvisation was an exciting change of direction; Fraser had never been formally instructed in playing jazz. He had barely scratched the surface of improvisation and to be learning these techniques was a huge broadening of his musical knowledge, his primary reason for applying for the scholarship — “I completed the course with a greatly developed appreciation of just how vast musical understanding can be.”

Over the years Fraser has performed in the styles of production band keys parts, accompanying on the piano for eisteddfods, solo and ensemble classical performance — and now in an ensemble jazz format. Fraser describes performing at the 2017 Clarence Jazz Festival as being “in many ways a unique experience; my first time performing jazz, playing with all professional musicians, and performing at a significant public event to a large crowd.”

As to the future, Fraser says, “My aspirations as a pianist don't extend to being my main profession, but I will be performing at various venues for the Tasmanian Symphony Orchestra virtuoso performance program throughout 2017. I intend to continue accompanying students and also taking the Chamber Music Program rehearsals at Hobart College.

“The tutoring I received under the Ian Pearce Piano Scholarship was a wonderful and unique experience — an absolute pleasure learning from Tom Vincent.”

The Hobart Jazz Club Inc. congratulates Fraser on his enthusiastic study and practice of jazz. Club members and individual donors can only imagine the gratification of the late Ian Pearce, AM, at the musical education happening in his name.
